Want to be on the West Sac city council?

Because former West Sacramento city councilman Oscar Villegas has been appointed to the county board of supervisors, the city council is now seeking applicants from residents interested in filling the vacant seat on the council. The term for the vacant seat expires in November, 2016.

Applications from interested people are to be personally delivered to the city clerk's office at 1110 West Capitol Avenue (no mail or faxes). Deadline is 5 p.m. on March 20.

The requirements, according to city spokesman Art Schroeder:

Applicants for the City Council must be at least 18 years of age, live in West Sacramento, and be registered voters in West Sacramento at the time of the application. Interested candidates for the position can find the application form on the City's website, www.cityofwestsacramento.org (see the "News You Can Use" heading), request the form from the City Clerk's Office, 1110 West Capitol Ave., 3rd floor, or phone (916) 617-4500.

Finalists will be notified no later than March 27 (Mayor Christopher Cabaldon and Mayor Pro Tem Mark Johannessen will review applications and select the finalists).

Finalists will be interviewed by the City Council at the Council's regularly-scheduled meeting, April 2 at 7 p.m.

"The application process will be open and transparent," said Schroeder in a press statement. "In the interest of fairness, applicants are discouraged from contacting or meeting privately with individual members of the City Council. The Mayor and Mayor Pro Tem will decline all requests to meet about the position until the Council appoints the replacement member."

Schroeder announced the selection process on Friday. As the News-Ledger went to press Tuesday morning, no applications had yet been received in the city clerk's office.

Raider girls take a tourney

River City High School's girls soccer team won its "Raider Cup Classic" tournament held Feb. 28 and March 1.

The rainy-weekend victory came over 11 visiting varsity teams from Summerville to Nevada Union.

The Raiders faced Armijo High in the finals on Saturday. It was a game of "continuous action," reports RCHS coach Kamal Singh, with River City prevailing 2-0.

The Raider varsity was anchored on the offense by Jaylem Crim and Keionna Claypoole; in the midfield by Andrea Salcedo, Taylor Martin and Crystal Carroll; and on defense by Annie Wampler, Valeria Salcedo, Marinna Vigil, Melissa Whitesell, Dianerick Ramirez and goalkeeper Erin Delany.

The Raiders defense yielded zero goals during the whole tournament, helping to win its preliminary tournament matches 5-0, 7-0 and 1-0.

The team lost sophomore starting center Hildelice Medina to a season-ending knee injury in the second game.

"You learn to make adjustments," said Coach Kamal Singh later. "Soccer is a team sport, and I told the girls they had to step up to fill the void of not having Hildelice. (Winning) this tournament was no accident. These girls have been training hard and wanted to win this tournament and make River City Girls Soccer history."

The team is off to a 7-0 start to its season.

Days numbered for I Street Bridge

Plans to replace the 103-year old I Street Bridge continue to march forward.

West Sacramento's city council voted last week to approve an agreement with Sacramento to move forward with preliminary engineering on a new bridge to be sited just a little to the north of the skinny old "swing" bridge.

The existing bridge lands at I Street in Sacramento and on C Street in West Sacramento With a single lane in each direction, the steel bridge often feels to motorists like it's dangerously narrow. More than once, cars and trucks have scraped as they passed in opposite directions over the Sacramento River.

The planned new bridge site is planned to better synchronize with Sacramento's "Railyards" project and West Sacramento's plans for its "Washington" area. It would be a movable span with more lanes for traffic, bikes and pedestrians, and possibly a streetcar.

Sacramento and West Sacramento have agreed to contribute $350,000 each towards a preliminary engineering and environmental review. The cities have selected Mark Thomas and Company as consultant.

The cities expect federal sources to pick up most of the eventual costs of the new bridge. Earlier estimates pegged that cost at around $86 million.

"The current schedule, depending upon funding availability through Caltrans, forecasts the construction of the bridge to occur in 2019-2020," said a recent West Sacramento city staff report.

West Sacramento police joined an FBI "Safe Streets Task Force" and other agencies to serve arrest warrants last week on four "known Norteno street gang members" for sale of methamphetamine and other criminal activity, according to Lieutenant Tod Sockman of the W.S.P.D.

The warrants were served at about 7 a.m. on Tuesday, March 4.

Other agencies involved included the state Department of Corrections and Rehabilitation, California Highway Patrol, Sacramento Police Department and Davis Police Department.

Arrested were three West Sacramento man and one man from North Highlands. They were:

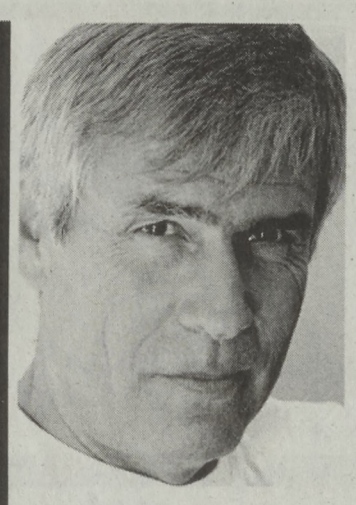
Shopping for a date in the local supermarket

My Back Pages



By Daryl Fisher

Single guys: having a cute butt helps. But evidently, you really need to get some cleaning products and arugula into your shopping cart.

Did you know that "supermarket flirtations" are the rage in Europe? Well, that's what a world-traveling friend of mine recently told me and I was shocked to learn it! I mean, all I've ever heard from the women in my life is that they absolutely hate going shopping for food. I guess the first thousand or so times are alright, but after that, it apparently becomes nothing but a dreaded chore that no one in their right mind would consider fun.

"That's because you live in America where the women have to do all the grocery shopping," explained my friend. "Over in Europe most men can actually take care of themselves and won't starve to death if they don't have a woman in their life shopping and cooking for them."

"So," I asked with surprise, "you're saying that men and women actually go to the local grocery store with the express purpose of meeting someone they would want to date?"

"That's right. In fact, research in Britain has shown that many young people actually prefer meeting members of the opposite sex in supermarkets than in nightclubs. Now don't get me wrong, nightclubs are still very popular for hooking up for a one night stand, but women who want more than that often find it in their grocery aisles."

"You're kidding."

"No, I'm very serious. But it only seems to work in places where there are a lot of modern men who live alone and therefore do their own chores and know how to cook."

"So how does all of that go down?"

"Well, as a woman, when I am looking for a potential soulmate in the supermarket, I just go in, get myself a shopping cart, stroll up and down the aisles in one of my cutest outfits, and see who is obviously single. And once having spotted a likely target, I find a way of making sure I am right next to him so I can look down into his basket."

"Why would you want to do that?"

"Because if his shopping basket is full of fresh veggies and fruit, flour and spices, then I know he can cook and has the time to do it, which means he probably has a good job with no stress and lots of free time for me. But if he has a bunch of those ready-made meals in his basket, then he probably has no time for cooking or interest in it, which means he would expect his partner to do it for him, and I hate to cook. This type of man is often senior management and in a high income bracket, but the downside to that is that they usually have very little time for the woman in their life, which of course is not good."

"You can tell all of that just from what the poor guy has in his grocery cart?"

"Sure, and other basket giveaways as to a man's availability are shampoo and toiletries. If there is nothing of this kind in his basket, then he falls into two categories. One, he has a wife or girlfriend, or two, his mother buys them for him, and both are not good for the single woman looking for a mate. Oh, and if his basket is filled up with beer instead of wine, that is not a good sign, either, because a man who loves beer is usually typed as someone who either drinks with his mates while watching sporting events at a pub, or will even order beer at a fancy restaurant, neither of which is very classy. Wine drinkers, on the other hand, can be expected to take you to nice places and they usually have good taste and some class, whereas beer drinkers are almost always wannabe's in those important areas. And cleaning products can be very illuminating, too."

"Cleaning products?"

"Oh, yes. For instance, no man ever buys cleaning products unless he lives alone, especially laundry detergents or dishwashing soaps, so that tells you right away if he is available. And most men also do not buy things like toilet cleaners or scouring pads unless they are single. Plus cleaning products are also very helpful in determining a man's income bracket. If all of the aforementioned products are in a man's basket, it means he is only in the middle class and cannot hire someone to clean his apartment for him, but it also means that he is very clean, which in my way of thinking, is almost as important as him having money."

"And you've actually done this?" I asked with interest. "I mean, you've gone into a supermarket and strolled up and down the aisles looking into the grocery baskets of single men."

"Of course!"

"But what do you do when you've spotted the right guy for you? I mean, how do you actually go about meeting him?"

"Well, all women are different and have their own way of flirting, but I personally like to crash into his shopping cart with mine."

"What?"

"That forces him to actually interact with me while I am apologizing profusely for being such a clumsy fool. You have to remember, most of the good guys are shy and don't have the courage to break the ice first – that's why they're still single."

"You ram his shopping cart with yours?"

"Absolutely. And very hard, too."

"So, let me get this straight, first you stroll around and scope him out, then you check everything in his shopping basket, and then you crash into him with your cart? Wow, it all seems so.....well, so calculated."

"Daryl, all is fair in love and war, and a girl needs every edge she can get nowadays. But to tell you the honest truth, if he's tall, still has all his hair and a relatively flat belly, and his butt looks really cute when he's pushing his cart around, I could pretty much care less what's in his basket!"

Water plant, bridge receive names

City council honors a pair of West Sac leaders -- one living, one not

A couple of key pieces of West Sacramento infrastructure were officially named after local leaders last week. The names were approved by the West Sacramento City Council on Wednesday for:

● "The George Kristoff Water Plant," formerly known as the Bryte Bend Water Treatment plant. This facility sits on the city's northern riverbank and has served as the city's drinking water plant in 1988.

It has been named after the late George Kristoff, who helped govern the region before cityhood by serving on the East Yolo Community Services District Board. Kristoff was also a member of "People for Better Water," which succeeded in "wresting the water system from a private purveyor that was more interested in making a profit than providing high quality water to the residents," according to a city staff report.

Kristoff and his group helped pass a bond measure to build the plant, and helped secure rights to the use of river water to supply the town. He is the father of current city councilman Bill Kristoff.

● "The Michael McGowan Bridge" will be the name for the new crossing now under construction at South River Road and the barge canal. The bridge is expected to be finished in November, and will help better connect Southport, the "Pioneer Bluffs" area and the freeway.

It is named after current (and longtime) West Sacramentan Mike McGowan, who recently left a post on the Yolo County Board of Supervisors in order to accept a governor's appointment with the state Department of Motor Vehicles.

McGowan has also been a member of the West Sacramento City Council (where he served as the city's first mayor) and on the commission that governs the local port.

"Naming a crossing after Mike commemmorate's Mike's unique ability to provide solid connections and cross over obstacles," said a city report advocating for the bridge naming.

The two naming proposals were approved by a 4-0 vote by the council.

D.A.'s office warns of web-related scams making the rounds

The office of Yolo County District Attorney Jeff Reisig wants the public to be aware of a couple of scams currently making the rounds.

In one ripoff, consumers receive a computer-generated phone call telling them they have won $100 off of their AT&T phone bill. The phone call instructs them to log onto the website www.iliveatt.com, which looks legitimate but is only a "convincing fake," reports Dave Edwards of the D.A.'s office.

The site tries to steal personal information to use for fraud.

Also reported locally is an email message that purports to be a "foreclosure notice."

The email sounds official, and tells you that you are being foreclosed and evicted from your home. You are asked to respond immediately by clicking on a link.

The message "is designed to scare you into responding quickly, while you are upset and not thinking clearly," reports Derek Soriano of the D.A.'s office. "Cybercriminals are trying to get you to open attachments which may contain computer viruses, or provide them with a credit card number. You can be sure this is a scam designed to steal your money and possibly your identity. If you receive an unexpected or unsolicited email like this and you are not sure if it is legitimate, you should contact your bank and/or realtor to ask them about it before you respond."

Edwards offered these tips:

1. Beware if a message offers something that seems too good to be true.
2. Watch out if the message threatens negative action, such as canceling your account, if you fail to act immediately.
3. Be suspicious if a message asks you to click on a link to update or submit your information.
4. Don't respond to or open attachments, or click on links, in unsolicited emails.

Yolo's bond rating nudged to A-

From Beth Gabor
County of Yolo

The international bond rating agency Standard & Poor's (S&P) in February raised its long-term rating for Yolo County's general obligation debt from "BBB+" to "A-" and indicated that the outlook is stable.

The rating is based on S&P's opinion of the following factors for Yolo County:

The report commented on an "adequate" economy in the region, and said "the stable outlook reflects Standard & Poor's view of the county's improved operational results, which are due, in part, to ongoing expenditure reductions. We believe financial management policies will likely facilitate minimum unassigned general fund reserves to further stabilize and improve the county's financial profile. We could lower the rating if the county were to return to deficit spending. Conversely, we could raise the rating during the two-year outlook period if the county were to maintain its structural balance."

"The disciplined approach and long-term perspective adopted by Yolo County management and staff clearly paid off and are paving the way toward a more fiscally sustainable future for Yolo County," said Yolo County Board of Supervisors Chair Don Saylor in a press release. "In the short-term, this raised rating will reduce the borrowing cost for Yolo County in the capital market."

March 5, 5:20 p.m.

A patrol officer noticed three people standing at the corner of a West Capitol Avenue building, away from its front doors. The officer suspected drug activity.

"I approached their location and asked what they were doing back in the corner of the building," reported the officer. He asked them all to take a seat – and saw one of the men discard a 7.5" knife. The man was read his rights.

The suspect then admitted having carried the knife, and "that he took it out (of his pocket) because he did not want officers to search him and cut themselves." He also said that he "bought it at a garage sale and that he was carrying it for protection." The man was arrested for carrying a concealed weapon.

March 6, 8 p.m.

A Southport woman reported somebody had taken $450 from her nightstand.

March 6, 10:15 a.m.

Police answered a "trespassing" call on the 1200-block of West Capitol. An officer contacted a man in his late 20s who showed "objective signs of being under the influence of 'spice,' a synthetic narcotic – elevated heart rate of 115 BPM, incoherent speech, blank stare."

The man was unresponsive to questioning. He was booked and held for an identity check.

March 6, 3:01 p.m.

A loss prevention officer at a West Capitol Avenue supermarket watched a 47-year old woman put several items into her purse and walk out without paying.

He stopped her outside, identifying himself, but the suspect "started assaulting" the employee. Police arrived and jailed her after taking her to a hospital for medical clearance.

March 7, 1:30 p.m.

A 28-year old Santa Cruz man said his wallet had been lost or stolen at a West Sacramento store. In it was $3,800-$5,000 in cash.

March 7, 2 p.m.

A homeless person found a handgun magazine at the Broderick Boat Ramp and turned it in to police. An officer noted that the magazine possibly came from a pellet gun.

$80 in cash was reported from an unattended purse at a Triangle Court business.

March 7, 9:18 p.m.

Police were recalled for a report of two men fighting "with weapons" at a mobilehome park on the 2300-block of West Capitol Avenue. Responding, an officer saw one subject who fit the description of a suspect said to have been wielding a shovel. The officer attempted to contact the man.

"No, I'm not going to talk to you because I'm drunk," the man answered, going into one of the trailers.

Two officers followed him inside "due to the fact that (the subject) may possibly be injured or have caused injury to another person," one reported. But the man "continued to run through the trailer and failed to follow our directions to stop."

The officers grabbed the man's arms, and handcuffed him after a brief struggle. The man was arrested for being too drunk to care for himself.

March 8, 2:22 p.m.

Police responded to the report of two men fighting at a C Street market, but found that neither subject wanted prosecution. One, a 19-year old homeless man, was arrested on a warrant.

March 8, 4:50 p.m.

Police responded to Michigan Boulevard "for a female dancing in the street."

They contacted a 47-year old resident of Michigan Blvd., and arrested her for being drunk in public.

March 8, 6:30 p.m.

Police responded to a "road rage" incident at Lake Washington Boulevard and Jefferson Boulevard (records indicate that the problem may have started at Southport Parkway and Carlin Drive).

A 54-year old Rollins Court man "jumped on the hood of (victim's) vehicle, pounded on it and dented it. Suspect also punched victim, causing minor injuries." He was cited for misdemeanor battery and vandalism.

March 9, 3:50 a.m.

A Maple Street residence was found burglarized. Someone forced the front door, taking two bikes and a TV worth a total of around $750.

March 9, 7 a.m.

Police contacted a 19-year old Sacramento man involved in a collision on the 4300-block of West Capitol Avenue. The man appeared drunk. He was taken to UC Davis Medical Center for medical clearance, and charged with DUI and driving with a suspended license.

He was also charged with driving without a legally-mandated "ignition interlock device" – an alcohol breath analyzer that prevented the car from being started unless a "clean" breath sample was provided.

March 9, 7:35 p.m.

A 6th Street man was contacted for riding a bike without a rear light or reflector on West Capitol. He was found in possession of 1.8 grams of marijuana, and no medical marijuana card. He was cited and released.

March 9, 11:30 p.m.

A Cummins Way woman called police: a male suspect broke a window at her residence, and then returned and broke her car's window.

March 10, 1:45 a.m.

Earlier, police responded to a call that a drunk 52-year old man was playing music too loud in his D Street apartment. The man "was advised to keep it down."

After new complaints from neighbors, police responded a second time and heard him "screaming in his room." He came out, apparently intoxicated, and was arrested.

EDITOR'S NOTE: The West Sacramento Police Department is undergoing a transition in its data management. Because of this, we currently have access to many of the department's arrest reports, but not to the logs of calls for service and reports of crime.

Responding to an inquiry from the News-Ledger, a spokesman said the department hopes for a solution in early 2014.

We hope to again be able to search through more material when compiling this weekly log.

Clean up that criminal record:

From the County of Yolo

The Yolo County Public Defender's Record Mitigation and Community Reintegration Clinic will host a half-day event to help rehabilitated offenders clean up their criminal records and to provide information about available community and government resources. The event will occur on Friday, March 14, 1:00-5:00 p.m. in the Atrium of the Yolo County Administration Building, located at 625 Court Street in Woodland.

Individuals with criminal convictions face significant roadblocks to full reintegration into society, such as restricted opportunities for employment and denial of access to social services like public housing and benefits. However, under California law, rehabilitated offenders can petition the court for various forms of relief including dismissals of former convictions (also known as "expungements") and reduction of certain felony convictions to misdemeanors.

On March 14, Public Defender attorneys and students from the UC Davis School of Law will answer questions about individuals' eligibility for dismissals and reductions of convictions, and will initiate the process of applying for these remedies where possible. The clinic's social worker will be on hand to provide information about employment and other services available in the local community.

"This collaborative effort aims to reduce the damaging collateral effects of convictions and to empower individuals to overcome the challenges of reentry," said Yolo County Public Defender Tracie Olson in a press release.

It is very helpful, but not necessary, for attendees to bring a current rap sheet and all court documents related to their convictions and to notify the Public Defender's office of their attendance prior to March 14 at (530) 666-8165.

COUCH THEATER DVD PREVIEWS

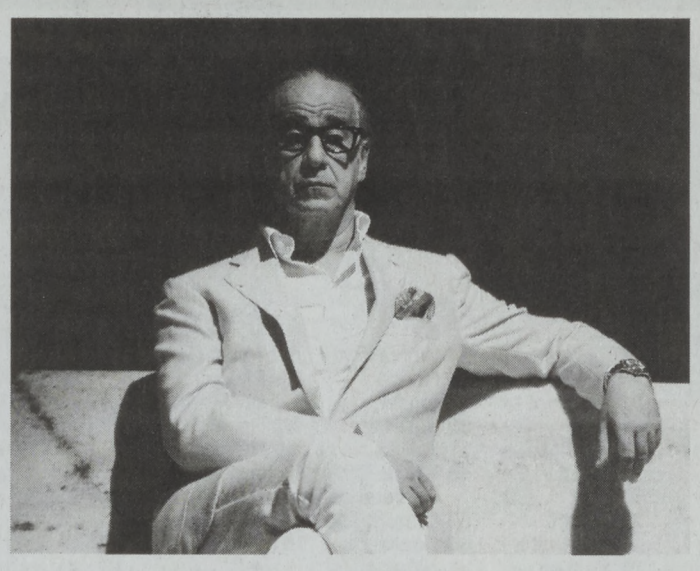
BY SAM STRUCKHOFF

PICKS OF THE WEEK

"The Wolf of Wall Street" (R) -- Jordan Belfort (Leonardo DiCaprio) was a kid from Long Island who went from working in a strip mall to the financial district in a whirlwind of corruption and indulgence. Before he was 30, he already had inflicted considerable harm on the economy, not to mention the damage to his brain and his soul. In the late '80s, the twentysomething penny-stock broker learned a few (illegal) tricks of the larger stock trade, and rocketed to a world of sex, drugs and vulgar displays of wealth.

Martin Scorsese put this movie in fast-forward and full volume. I don't think there's another movie about financial fraud that has this much reckless abandon. Yet it all still works: the film pulled five Oscar nominations, including Best Picture.

"The Great Beauty" (unrated) -- This Oscar-winning Italian film could be considered the older, more thoughtful cousin to "The Wolf of Wall Street" or the latest version of "The Great Gatsby." It begins with the lavish 65th birthday party of Rome's most jaded journalist, Jep (Toni Servillo). While his gorgeous guests swirl around him, he's concerned with existential problems that amount to bubbles in the champagne. His character starts to shift when he learns that his sweetheart from his teen years has recently passed away.



Toni Servillo in "The Great Beauty"

The movie features the highest, lowest and strangest people in Rome -- each one serving as a different jumping-off point for Jep's musings. Servillo is an accomplished and immensely watchable performer. His character is at once smug and vulnerable, curious and disillusioned.

"Delivery Man" (PG-13) -- David Wozniak (Vince Vaughn) is an adult underachiever who never grasped the whole responsibility thing. His chance to change as a person comes from a lawsuit -- 142 of his 533 children want to know who he is. David made plenty of contributions to a sperm bank in the '90s, and he has a chance to connect with his many offspring, who are now in their 20s. While Vaughn is charming enough, the movie takes a slow slide into distracted storytelling and sentimentality.

"Odd Thomas" (unrated) -- In a small desert town somewhere, there's a fry cook (Anton Yelchin) who can see the invisible demons lurking all around us. His name is Thomas, and his condition has made him understandably odd. Only Thomas can see the "bodachs" moving in -- bodachs are these are unbelievably cool-looking and well-animated monsters that show up just before awful things happen. Thomas and his girlfriend (Addison Timlin) team up with the sheriff (Willem Dafoe) to take up the fight against supernatural evil and Thomas' unending weirdness.

"The New Digital Age: Reshaping the Future of People, Nations and Business"
by Eric Schmidt and Jared Cohen
(Random House, $26.95)
Reviewed by Molly Ford

"The New Digital Age" describes a vision of what life will be like in the future as digital technology continues to penetrate and refine every aspect of our daily life, from cooking to government surveillance. The book is written by Eric Schmidt, executive chairman of Google and member of the President's Council of Advisors on Science and Technology, and Jared Cohen, director of Google Ideas and a former adviser to Secretaries of State Condoleezza Rice and Hillary Clinton. The authors support their hypothesis about the future with clever anecdotes from the past, both personal and historical, as well as brainy observations of the future implications of society's present-day digital knowledge.

Full of stories and insights on how digital technologies could be appropriated by governments and those in power to oppress people, this New York Times best-seller spans topics as varied as the future perceptions of personal identity, government states, revolutions and terrorism. The ideas behind the new Code War and the future of cyber-terrorism are simultaneously fascinating and frightening.

However, Schmidt and Cohen also clearly show how the same technology used behind different platforms could be used to empower and raise up the people. Want to know how urban professionals might start their mornings in the future? This book has the answer.

Schmidt and Cohen guide you through these predictions of the future and how the world will transform in an intelligent, measured way. If you want a stimulating reference-based account of what your future may look like, this is your read.

Celebrate Peanuts!

March is National Peanut month! It's time to celebrate America's most popular nut.

The peanut plant probably originated in South America. European explorers first discovered peanuts in Brazil. Tribes in central Brazil also ground peanuts with maize to make a drink.

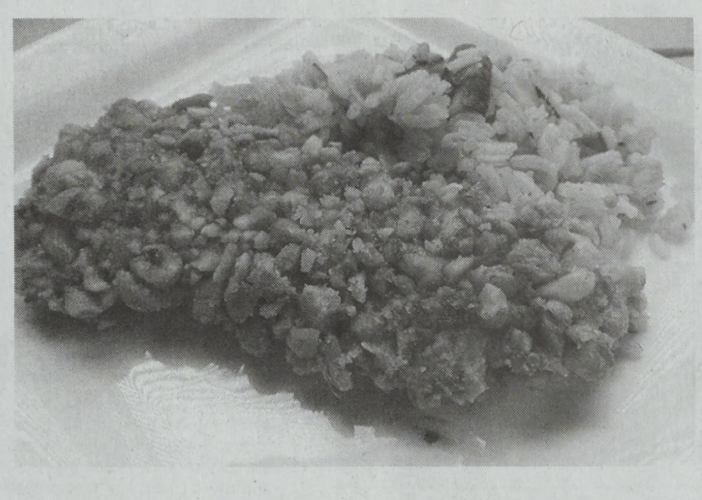
Peanuts were growing as far north as Mexico when the Spanish began their exploration of the New World. The explorers took peanuts back to Spain, and from there traders and explorers spread them to Asia and Africa. Africans were the first people to introduce peanuts to North America beginning in the 1700s.

Peanuts were grown in Virginia in the 1800s as a commercial crop, and used mainly for oil, food and as a cocoa substitute. At this time, peanuts were regarded as a food for livestock and the poor, and were considered difficult to grow and harvest.

Peanuts became prominent after the Civil War when Union soldiers found they liked them and took them home. Both armies subsisted on this high-protein food source. Their popularity grew in the late 1800s when PT Barnum's circus wagons traveled across the country and vendors called out, "Hot roasted peanuts!" to the crowds. Peanuts also became popular at baseball games.

In the early 1900s, peanuts became a significant agricultural crop when the boll weevil threatened the South's cotton crop. Following the suggestions of noted scientist Dr. George Washington Carver, peanuts served as an effective commercial crop and, for a time, rivaled the position of cotton in the South.

There is evidence that ancient South American Inca Indians were the first to grind peanuts to make peanut butter. In the United States, Dr. John Harvey Kellogg (of cereal fame) invented a version of peanut butter in 1895. Peanut butter was first introduced at the St. Louis World's Fair in 1904. It is believed that the U.S. Army popularized the peanut butter and jelly sandwich, using them for sustenance during maneuvers in World War II.



Americans average more than six pounds of peanut products each year. Peanut butter accounts for about half that total -- with $850 million in retail sales each year.

Despite the fact that peanuts are high in fat, they are still an excellent food choice because they provide a variety of important nutrients. Peanuts contain protein, fiber and healthy monounsaturated and polyunsaturated fats, all of which improve health and lower the risk of chronic disease.

SPICY PEANUT-CRUSTED CHICKEN

1/2 cup flour
1 tablespoon poultry seasoning
1 tablespoon garlic powder
1 teaspoon cayenne pepper
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon black pepper
1/2 cup prepared mustard
2 tablespoons honey
2 cups dry roasted peanuts, finely chopped
4 boneless skinless chicken breasts or thighs, or a combination of both
2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons olive oil

1. In a pie pan or shallow bowl, combine flour, 1/2 tablespoon poultry seasoning, and a 1/2 teaspoon each of garlic powder, cayenne pepper, salt and pepper; mix well. In a second dish, combine mustard and honey with remaining 1/2 teaspoons of garlic powder, cayenne pepper, salt and pepper.
2. Place the chopped peanuts in a third dish. Dip each piece of chicken in the flour mixture, then in the honey-mustard mixture, and finally in the peanuts to coat.
3. Heat butter and the olive oil in a 10- to 12-inch skillet; until butter is melted and foamy. Add the chicken and cook over medium-low heat until cooked through and golden brown, 4 to 5 minutes per side. Makes 4 servings.

If you consult either of these resources, you should be aware that the same lender may hold more than one mortgage or deed of trust on the property. The sale will be made, but without covenant or warranty, expressed or implied, regarding title, possession, or encumbrances, to satisfy the obligation secured by said Deed of Trust. The undersigned Trustee disclaims any liability for any incorrectness of the property address or other common designation, if any, shown herein. The purchaser shall have no further recourse against the beneficiary, the Trustor or the trustee. NOTICE TO POTENTIAL BIDDERS: If you are considering bidding on this property lien, you should understand that there are risks involved in bidding at a trustee auction. You will be bidding on a lien, not on the property itself. Placing the highest bid at a trustee auction does not automatically entitle you to free and clear ownership of the property. You should also be aware that the lien being auctioned off may be a junior lien. If you are the highest bidder at the auction, you are or may be responsible for paying off all liens senior to the lien being auctioned off, before you can receive clear title to the property. You are encouraged to investigate the existence, priority and size of outstanding liens that may exist on this property by contacting the county recorder's office or a title insurance company, either of which may charge you a fee for this information. If you consult either of these resources, you should be aware that the same lender may hold more than one mortgage or deed of trust on the property. NOTICE TO PROPERTY OWNER: The sale date shown on this notice of sale may be postponed one or more times by the mortgagee, beneficiary, trustee, or a court, pursuant to Section 2924g of the California Civil Code. The law requires that information about trustee sale postponements be made available to you and to the public, as a courtesy to those not present at the sale. If you wish to learn whether your sale date has been postponed, and if applicable, the rescheduled time and date for the sale of this property, you may call 877-484-9942 or 800-280-2832 or visit this Internet Web site www.USA-Foreclosure.com or www.Auction.com using the file number assigned to this case 7777.19527. Information about postponements that are very short in duration or that occur close in time to the scheduled sale may not immediately be reflected in the telephone information or on the Internet Web site. The best way to verify postponement information is to attend the scheduled sale. Date: February 28, 2014 NORTHWEST TRUSTEE SERVICES, INC., as Trustee Melissa Myers, Authorized Signatory 1241 E.
